DILATION PROCEDURE: Dilation includes the use of topical medication to dilate the pupil of the eye, to detect disease such as glaucoma, retinal detachments, malignant growths, diabetic retinopathy, hypertensive retinopathy, etc… Having your pupils dilated is a painless procedure with some minor side-effects. These include: mild burning on installation of drops, sensitivity to light, inability to focus at near, and blurry distance vision for some patients. These side effects usually last no longer than 4 to 5 hours. Some patients find it difficult to drive, and thus must bring a driver with them. State law requires that all certified Optometrists must perform a dilated exam on:

- All new patients to our practice.
- All established patients who have previously not been dilated.
- All established patients who were previously dilated but deemed medically necessary to be dilated again.

Dr. Fowler will do a dilated eye exam. If you find it inconvenient to have your eyes dilated at this visit, or wish not to have your eyes dilated, please indicate.
