To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to write a letter of reference for Berghammer Builders, located in Clayton, Wisconsin.

Though I have only worked professionally with Berghammer Builders for nine years, I have been familiar with their quality of service for a number of years, which came directly from their customers, both on a personal and professional basis. Those that have worked with Berghammer Builders report how this company is truly dedicated to customer service and satisfaction.

Prior to assuming the role as District Administrator for the Clayton School District, I was a principal for the Hudson School District and one of my most challenging assignments was to oversee the construction of a new elementary school building. During this huge undertaking, I learned quickly the importance of having a strong working relationship with various contractors. One of my greatest frustrations was the lack quality and personal service offered. After working with Berghammer Builders over these past years, I have regained my faith in construction companies.

Berghammer Builders is a family owned and operated company that is committed to excellence in customer satisfaction from the initial design and proposal to the completion of the project. The Clayton School District has contracted services from Berghammer Builders for a number of repair and replacement projects, which include, but not limited to, roof and gymnasium wall repairs, sidewalk installation, classroom and office remodeling, and masonry work. When contacted to make a proposal for a job, they would provide various options for the District to consider and supported the administration through the process. Regardless the size of the projects, Berghammer Builders provided the District with impeccable service.

Berghammer Builders demonstrate great pride in not only the work they do, but in their community and the Clayton School District. They truly go "above and beyond" to satisfy the customer. We are extremely grateful for and pleased with the services they have provided the Clayton School District.

Respectfully,

Cathleen F. Shimon
District Administrator
